About

My practice operates at the intersection between Architecture, Design and Sculpture. I take inspiration in everything around me, translating concepts from one realm to another, from nature to culture, science and innovation to fine and applied arts.

I'm passionate about bridging concepts and connecting people through the design of spatial experiences. Always thinking outside the box to push the envelope and propose fresh and alternative solutions.

Freely navigating across scales, from small objects to large architectures, embedding the same level of dedication to convey a powerful narrative aligned with my client's identity.

Polyvalent by nature and by design, I combine creative thinking and technical knowhow, R&D and commercial projects, advanced 3D software and manufacturing techniques to materialize my vision of another future.
