About

Performance-driven with a creative mind and innovation obsession, I thrive on leading and uniting teams around new projects. Change is deeply ingrained in the DNA of the fashion industry, regardless of the market segment. Adapting to rapidly shifting cultures and customer habits while maintaining an open mind enhances our ability to deliver exceptional results.

My experience ranges from haute couture design studios in Paris to the dynamic mass-market landscape in the US. I've worked on diverse projects, including The Met Gala, Delta Airline uniform redesign, VIP custom-made gowns, singers' world tour costumes, and even established an entire licensing business deal between companies in different countries. Additionally, I have owned my own fashion company, among other ventures.

Transforming a design vision into reality through a complex and sometimes challenging process is remarkably gratifying. My interests revolve around customer satisfaction, product development, company culture, team building, and fostering innovation, all of which remain at the core of my passions.

PS: I hold a French and US passport.
