About

As the Chief Human Resources Officer at Tally Weijl, I was responsible for the people strategy and operations of a global fashion retailer with over 900 stores and 3,000 people. I led a team of HR professionals who shared my passion for creating a positive and engaging work environment that fosters talent development, diversity, and innovation.

With more than 25 years of international experience in human resources management, I have successfully delivered operational and strategic solutions for various industry sectors, including oil and gas, engineering and construction (EPC), renewable energy, FMCG, and retail. My core competencies include performance management, personnel management, leadership development, organizational design, and change management. I have a proven track record of enhancing performance, productivity, and profitability through effective leadership, collaboration, and empathy.
