About

Currently based in West Wales and London, Leia Morrison is a predominantly analogue photographer. The sea is often a source of inspiration to her work- as seen in projects such as Swim and The Lifeguards, but it's her fascination with documenting the personalities and lifestyles of her subjects that drives her creativity.

Her recent clients include Vice- Refinery29, Boys by Girls, Mumford and Sons, Hiut Denim and the M-Shed, Bristol.

Her work has featured on platforms such as Booooooom, Nowhere Diary, Toast, The Guardian and The BBC, and her images have received accolades for multiple competitions and awards – from being shortlisted for the Palm Studio Prize to winning the BJP Portrait of Britain Award, BBC Young Photojournalist of the Year Finalist and Cherrydeck Creator Award.
