About

As a fashion designer with a degree in Textile and Fashion design, as well as an MBA, I have a lot of expertise to offer. With a solid history of aiding brands in crafting unique products, I have 9 years of experience in the fashion industry. My job as a product developer for international clients such as Promod, GDM, Camaieau, and Asos within a textile firm has helped me develop my skills. I have good manufacturing technical knowledge and can design according to bulk manufacturing standards as well as one-of-a-kind product.

I specialize in bag design, with extensive experience in creating innovative and functional designs for leather goods, backpacks, and totes. My work in this area has involved developing unique concepts, creating detailed tech packs, and ensuring that designs meet both aesthetic and practical requirements. This specialization has allowed me to cater to diverse market needs and deliver high-quality products that resonate with consumers.

Currently, I hold a part-time lecturer position where I teach courses in art and design, drawing, creative thinking, and visual studies.
