About

Hi, I'm Olivia!

I'm an enthusiastic maker and visual communicator, who has a strong affinity with creating content that inspires, connects and engages. Multidisciplinary and used to working in a fast-paced environment, I thrive when I'm given the opportunity to design across multiple channels, producing cohesive visual identities for brands and individuals alike.

Studying on the Graphic Communication Design course at Central Saint Martins encouraged me to experiment and develop a keen eye for detail. I would describe my design practice as being not dissimilar to a magpie; gathering an eclectic mix of inspiration and re-mixing to create something fresh, whilst still being in-keeping with a brand's existing identity.

Experience

Graphic Designer

| Dec 2022 - Now

Junior Graphic Designer

Fenton | Sep 2021 - Dec 2022

Working in-house for fine jewellery retailer Fenton, I managed and designed both print and digital projects from start to finish and utilised my keen visual eye to ensure a cohesive brand identity across web design, social channels, and events. Due to Fenton's start-up nature, I have found I thrive in a fast-paced and ever-changing environment, frequently liaising with senior management, including the founder, to execute reactive creative assets.
