About

Digital copy is more than just words on a page. It's how over 65% of your clients will judge your business, and it's on that that they will make their decisions about whether to work with you or not.

So why would you not pay more attention to branding your brand through the power of the humble word?

I love human behaviour almost as much as I love writing. I love copy that is to the point and succinct. It works to quiet my child-like nature of questioning why. I've always had that annoying curiosity and love for understanding. The written word is so important to me.

Bringing YOUR voice to life is that "sweet spot" everyone refers to and it's where copywriting is key.

Good copy should tell people what they need - Great copy will evoke emotions and teach people; coach them into seeing the bigger picture. And making your clients feel understood and seen is a hugely overlooked part of building ongoing relationships.

Creative. Personable. Honest.
