About

I'm Jeanine, a British, youth culture-obsessed Designer based between London/Stockholm. I'm on a mission to use design and innovation as a means to positively impact our planet, and to improve the function of garments. My professional experience has been gained at leading brands such as; Acne Studios, Emilio Pucci and I'm an alumnus of the prestigious arts school Central Saint Martins where I studied Fashion Design and Marketing. I'm currently responsible for contributing to design and innovation at brands, emphasising storytelling and driving a strong narrative from conception to consumer. Executing excellence via in-depth trend research, concept development, sustainable fabric research and innovative design.
