About

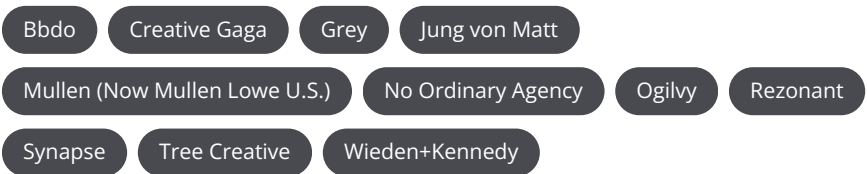

My name is Saurabh, I'm a creative director based in London.

After attending Miami Ad School Europe, I've parked my bike at agencies in Berlin, Paris, Amsterdam and Boston. With extensive experience in brand building and copywriting for both startups and big brands alike, my work has been recognised at major award festivals around the world.

I've spent the past few years working closely with purpose-driven startups profitable and mainstream. I've helped them figure out their core brand truth, and build narratives around them rooted in authenticity and relatability, to find and connect with their tribe.

I'm keen to know more about the role you're offering and how you see the perfect candidate. If you feel we can build something together, let's have a chat.
